Commercial Club.

A meeting will be held Tuesday, January 19th at 2 p.m., at the Garrard Hank and Trust Company for the purpose of organizing a Commercial Club. All prosperous towns and cities are represented by a Commercial Club, and as such an organization would help build our town, we want a full meeting of all business men. It is hoped that the farmers will also respond to this call as the welfare of the city is theirs too.

M. P. A.

Neighbors have notified the Men's Protective Association that J. W. Sweeney swept the pavement on Sunday, and reports say that Rev. C. C. Brown is not altogether clear of the charge of doing household work. Now if these parties will join the order, promise to abandon such work, and pay 25 cents dues, as Dr. Burnett has done, no further punishment will be inflicted. The order is growing, and a strict observance of its rules will guarantee liberty to us and our children.

Condition of City.

By reading the report of the condition of the City in this issue, it will be seen that we are in a healthy condition, and that the Board of Council deserves much credit for the able and efficient manner in which they have handled the affairs of the City, all circumstances considered.

Much of this good result is due to the advice and counsel of City Attorney, L. W. Walker; and Clerk Mason, Judge Harris, and Marshal Herren have done their duty faithfully.

Broughton—Major Trial.

The examining trial of the above parties named, for the mysterious killing of Mrs. Major, near Buena Vista, was called before Judge Ford, Saturday, J. E. Robinson representing the Commonwealth and Hon. R. H. Tomlinson and J. I. Hamilton the defense. The case was passed until Thursday, by the Commonwealth on account of the absence of an important witness. Much interest is manifested in the case, and we regret we will be unable to note result until next issue.

Duty.

Died, at her home near Manee, Mrs. Margaret Royston Doty, aged 70 years. Her death was due to a complication of diseases. A husband, Capt. John Doty, one daughter Mrs. Jacob White, of Lincoln and two sons, Will G. Doty, of Ohio, and John Doty of Point Leavell, mourn their irreparable loss. One daughter, Mrs. Franky Doty Harbin died two years ago. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. D. E. Frierson, and the remains were buried in Lancaster cemetery.

Crane—Fayne.

In Lexington, Thursday afternoon, January 10th, at the home of the bride's parents, Miss Carrie S. Crane and Mr. Jno. B. Fayne were united in marriage. The bride is a charming young lady with thorough musical education. Mr. Fayne is a man of splendid business ability, now being with the Leader, in Lexington.

After an extensive trip East they returned to the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fayne, at Stone.

The Record extends best of wishes for John and his bride.

Goods.

Ralph May, the youngest child of Mrs. Allen Goode died in the home of Marion Johnson December 6th 1908, after short illness. He was about two years and ten months old at the time of his taking leave for the presence of the Heavenly Father. This was a boy of unusual promises, being bright, happy and full of life and health. It is a great sorrow to his lonely mother as she passes through the solitary days of widowhood. But she has the comforting promises of the Father of all mercies and the sympathy of all the Christian people of the community.

It is just another instance of a little soul being transplanted into the garden of God's presence. Three little ones that go before only beckon us on to that blessed home where trouble or tears can never come. May the precious promises of God be sufficient to keep us all in perfect faith, until we meet again.

High Award To The Country Press.

The country press of the United States, probably never received more distinctive award to its moral worth, than in the action of the great National Council of the churches of America, recently held in Philadelphia and as reported in the Philadelphia daily.

The following resolution recognizing the moral value of the country press was offered before the body by Dr. Pierce, of Kentucky and favorably reported by the business committee of it. It was unanimously adopted later in full session of the Council with marked applause; the resolution being as follows:

"The Federal Council of the Church of Christ in America, recognizes the great value of the city and country press, the last as well as the first reaching and serving vast religious as well as civic fields, and cordially invites all the brotherhood of the press, both secular and religious, to co-operate with the Federal Council, as allies in the warfare against civic corruption, commercial dishonesty, unworthy vice and crime."

We appreciate the complimentary mention made by Dr. E. H. Pearce, of our city, in referring to the country press in the above resolution.

Jones—Brown

On Wednesday evening, at the residence of the bride's father, R. S. Brown, Richmond Street, Mr. David Jones was married to Miss Berline Brown, Eld. F. M. Tindler officiating. It was a quiet wedding attended only by relatives and friends. The parties are well connected, favorably known, and congratulations are in order.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express, through the Record, our heartfelt appreciation of the many kindnesses extended by our friends and neighbors during our recent great trouble. Helping bands and words of sympathy coming in such a time will never be forgotten, and we pray God's richest blessings upon those who came to us with them.

John G. Doty, Sr., and family.

Walker, book keeper, Director; J. J. Walker, J. S. Johnson, T. M. Arnold, B. F. Hudson, Alex Gibbs, L. L. Walker and C. A. Arnold, the last two being new directors.

Commercial Club.

A meeting will be held Tuesday, January 19th at 2 p.m., at the Garrard Hank and Trust Company for the purpose of organizing a Commercial Club. All prosperous towns and cities are represented by a Commercial Club, and as such an organization would help build our town, we want a full meeting of all business men. It is hoped that the farmers will also respond to this call as the welfare of the city is theirs too.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

To the Democratic party of the 13th Judicial District: I am a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge of this district. I prefer a primary election.

M. C. SAUFLEY.

We are authorized to announce Hon. Chas. A. Hardin, of Harrodsburg, as a candidate for re-nomination for the office of Commonwealth Attorney for the 13th Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Robert Thorntbury, of Campbellville, was elected messenger to carry Kentucky's electoral vote to Washington.

A Pittsburg man offers to sell himself for $1,000. He will never be able to attract a woman until he gets on the bargain counter at $1,000.00—Richardmond Climax.

The noose will end the career of six night riders, at Union City, Tennessee, on February 19, that number being sentenced for the murder of Rankin at Beefoot Lake. Justice frequently prevails these days, and crime will ultimately be subdued.

Kentucky stands first as a tobacco producing State, 240,000 acres having been cultivated last year. North Carolina comes next, with 200,000 acres. It is gratifying to our farmers to know that Garrard is one of the leading counties in the production of the weed.

Senator Tillman, in reply to the charge, of the President, that he was interested in the Oregon land grab, denied that he had been guilty of wrong and warned Mr. Roosevelt that he lived in a glass house with a glass floor. He asked for a full investigation of the matter and promised to have more to say about the President.

The Pittsburg graft, the secret murders in Indiana, the cremation of a body, in a stove in a church, by a minister, in Michigan, and many other crimes conspire to prove that the North overshadows the South in wickedness; but we will call it even if people in the North will quit posing as angels and cease calling the people of the South demons.

It is gratifying to know that the number of aliens admitted into the United States, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1908, was 502,470 less than for the year 1907. Restrictions in reference to physical, mental and moral defects are being rigidly enforced. To insure the perpetuity of our institutions, further restrictions should be imposed.

Judge Charles E. Boo, before he donned his prison garb, made to order, paid former Auditor Hager and present Auditor James the full amount he stole from them during the time he was not under bond. The amount was $3,482.87. He also left his wife $6,000 to support her while he is serving his term in the penitentiary. Who will reimburse the State for the remainder of the shortage made by Judge Boo is a question of law that is puzzling.

Direct primary nominations and further strengthening of the laws for the protection of the purity of elections were chief among the recommendations in the annual message of Gov. Hughes presented to the New York Legislature at its opening session. We heartily concur with our namesake. Primaries are close to the people and, if properly conducted, all fraud can be eliminated, while conventions are full of fraud and, being of such short duration, the wires are worked before the masses know what is going on.

The House and the Senate repudiated President Roosevelt. The House by a vote of 212 to 35 laid on the table the sections of the President's Secret Service message, which were held as an attack on the integrity of that body. Many speeches were made by Democrats and Republicans denouncing the President, and one of the strongest was made by Congressman Shurley. The Senate dealt a severe blow to the man in the White House by adopting the Culbertson resolution calling for information on the Tennessee coal and iron and steel merger. The President had only fourteen supporters. This is a nice state of affairs. The President seems to be without the support of his own party, and ought to be, since his whole aim is to make personal thrusts at all who do not agree with him. His message covered too much ground. He should investigate the guilty, and not include the innocent, in unwarranted accusations. His conduct is like that of an exaggerated ego or a self-conceited hero.

Vegetables As Medicines.

Carrots are excellent for gout. Cranberries correct the liver. Asparagus stimulates the kidneys. Watercress is an excellent blood purifier. Honey is a good substitute for cod liver oil. Parsnips possess the same virtues as sarsaparilla. Celery contains sulphur and helps to ward off rheumatism. Bananas are beneficial to sufferers from chest complaints. Celery is a nerve tonic; onions also are a tonic for the nerve. Beet root is fattening and good for people who want to put on flesh. Tomatoes are good for torpid liver but should be avoided by gouty people. Lettuce has a soothing effect on the nerves and is excellent for sufferers from insomnia. Spinach has great aperient qualities and is far better than medicine for sufferers from constipation. The juice of a lemon is excellent for sore throat, but should not be swallowed, but used as a gargle.

A Good One.

At Austin Kentucky, Miss Eliza Harrison set partridge eggs under a hen last summer and hatched quite a drove of young ones, and five out of the bunch live to be entirely grown and have become thoroughly domesticated. She expects to raise from the domesticated quail next season. The quail feed and roost with the chickens but through the day stay a considerable distance from the house, but at the least disturbance they return to the chickens for protection and always return at nightfall to roost. Miss Harrison has been offered a fancy price for the birds by parties who are interested in their culture and who want them to experiment with, but up to the present she has steadily refused to part with them.

This reminds us of John Duncan's gobbler which took the seat of the dead turkey hen, on eggs, hatched them out and watched over them till growth. This is no fake story.

Where Is Heaven?

A minister one day preached on Heaven. Next morning he was going down town and he met one of his old wealthy members. The brother stopped the preacher and said:

"Pastor, you preached a good sermon about Heaven. You told me all about Heaven, but you never told me where Heaven is."

"Ahh!" said the pastor, "I am glad of an opportunity this morning. I have just come from the hill-top yonder. In that cottage there is a member of your church. She is sick in bed with fever; her two little children are sick in the other bed; and she has not got a bit of coal nor a stick of wood, nor flour, nor sugar, nor any bread. If you will go down town and buy five dollars' worth of things—nice provisions—and send them up to her, and then go up there and say, 'My sister, I have brought you these nice provisions in the name of our Lord and Savior,' then ask for a bible and read the twenty-third Psalm, and then get down on your knees and pray—if you don't see heaven before you get all through I'll pay the bill."

The next morning he said:

"Pastor, I saw heaven, and spent fifteen minutes in Heaven as certain as you are listening."—Farmers' Guide.

Freight Roughly Handled.

Freight is handled in the Philippines by coolies, who, with a bamboo pole and a piece of rope, carry in a most precarious fashion packages that are liable to drop and burst at any moment. Hence the need of good stock for the casings and reinforcement with iron strap bands.

Ladies Must Not Read.

If there's anything worse a woman, it's something she might not to know, but you bet, she will find it out somehow. If she gets the least kind of a show now, we'll wager ten cents to a farthing that poor she has already read! We know she'd get at it somehow.

"This beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana in Galilee, and manifested forth his glory."—John 2:1.

A study of this miracle will give us a glimpse of the true glory of our Lord while upon earth.

1. We See the Glory of His Social Nature.

Jesus was no ascetic. He did not shut himself between four walls, bearing out the world.

He was truly in the world, though not of it.

While bearing the sorrows of the community he shared equally their joys. He broke up several funerals, but never a feast. He promoted the right kind of festivity. It came to increase our joys and diminish our sorrows, and he knows no other way to make our very sorrow channels of joy. We are not surprised, therefore, to find him at a marriage feast mingling with the people and showing forth the glory of his social nature.

2. We See the Glory of His Power.

It was quietly displayed; no outward show. He simply willed it and it was done. "The conscious water saw its Lord and blushed." Such is the glory of Christ's power today. It displays itself, not in the tempest, the earthquake or the fire, but in the still small voice. The great powers of nature are invisible and inaudible.

We wonder at thundering Niagara, and yet the vital forces of the forest draw up much more water than pours over Niagara falls. The quiet working of nature that lifts the cloud and distills the rain, giving life and beauty to meadow, field and flower, displays the true glory of God. The heavens declare his glory by quietly shining, and the firmament sheweth his handiwork without making ado over it.

3. We See the Glory of His Sympathy.

Sympathy with the embarrassed and perplexed. Here was a family with more guests than they expected, and their supplies ran short. The Lord comes just in time to relieve their embarrassment.

It suggests to us that Christ is ever sympathetic with the little worries and perplexities of life. It is easier to bear a great calamity than these little irritations.

Stanley said that he did not fear the lions and tigers of the African forest as much as the "jiggers" and the ants.

They killed more men than the savages.

4. We See the Glory of His Method.

The world's method is to give the best wine first and keep the worst for the last.

We see that in the experience of the drunkard. He has a time of jollity and what he calls happiness for a few years, but the end is delirium tremens, death; the good wine first, the bad last. How forcibly this was illustrated in the life of Landsberg, the great animal painter—a man before whose works of genius people in the art galleries of Europe stand to-day in rapt admiration. Near to close of his life he went around from place to place with swollen nose and bleared eyes, the pity of friends and the scorn of enemies. Byron gave the world's version when he wrote:

"My days are in the yellow leaf;

The flower, the fruit of life is gone;

The worm, the canker and the grief

Are mine alone."

"Beau Brummel" put it in not quite so poetical a form, when, after he had danced with princesses and flirted away his life, he pointed to a dog lying in the sun, and said: "I wish I was that dog." These men of the world had the good wine first and the bitter drags last. Christ may require of us self-denial, toll, struggle, patience. There may come into our lives sickness and death. We may have truly a hard time of it; but, depend upon it, the good time will come to the Christian, and these severe experiences will make the coming glory all the brighter. In what striking contrast with the sentiments of Byron and Brummel is the experience of Paul: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness." The "henceforth" is the Christian's good wine. His life may be a battle to fight, a race to run, a charge to bear; to keep; but victory will crown the battle; the prize is at the end of the race, and the "Well Done" from the Master's lips will make us glad that we kept the charge committed to us.
